This week has been another wild week weather wise, but an incredible one in terms of learning. We had a visit from 3 local headteachers on Thursday and I chose a group of children to speak to them about behaviour in school and how they are supported in their learning. They were completely blown away by how articulate they were, and how independent and resourceful they were with their learning. Great job Sennen!

As you may know, our focus this year is to increase our participation in the arts. Today we had a visit from Mae, who works at PK Porthcurno. She worked with Brisons class on creating some large stained glass windows to display in a new bus installation at the museum. The children did some awesome designs, that were upscaled and they collaged by the children. Once the installation has been set up, we will let you know so that you can go along and see that amazing work for yourselves!

Coats

We have had quite a few children saying they don't have coats in school. The weather is so changeable at the moment with lots of heavy downpours. I have told the children that they need to bring their coat into school every day, and that if they don't bring one in, they will be quiet reading in the porch.

Big dig

We were due to hold our next big dig morning tomorrow. We have really appreciated the amount of hard work and support that has gone into these events in the past and it has helped us to keep our school looking lovely. I have a lovely list of jobs to suit every taste this year! They include:

- Jet wash / tidy the front car park
- Do some clearing and repurposing in the secret garden
- We have some large granite rocks in the secret garden, that are proving hazardous to the children at present. We would like to move them so that we can use the space more for forest school. Moving them will either need strong people with crow bars, or a little digger - can anyone help?
- We have also now acquired the large garage, which we are hoping to turn into a nurture space / room, but it is currently full of stuff! If we have a skip we would like to start clearing it out so that we can begin renovations (once we secure funding).

Some useful tools to bring if you have any: fork, spade, loppers, secateurs, wheel barrow, crow bar, sack barrow or gloves!

I will make a final decision in the morning once I know what the weather is like. If it is on, I can promise tea and biscuits galore!

High five netball fixtures

Huge apologies for the mix up regarding the netball this week. We had sent the dates out before we had realised that it was aimed at Upper key stage 2. We have spoken with the organiser, and due to our low numbers, they have agreed for us to take a few year 4s along to make sure we have a full team. Please rest assured, we will be trying to arrange a year 3/4 match as soon as we can to give them the opportunity.

Cross country

A massive well done to all the amazing children who took part in the Hayle Cross Country. It was horrible weather and you all showed how amazingly resilient you are - congratulations! You can all take a good rest now as the next one is not until January in St Ives.

Christmas events!

We have lots of lovely events coming up for the festive season. Dates set so far are:
